

Appendix D

RAILROAD NAMES

Railroad Names (with predecessor and successor names and dates) – 150 pages by Wm. Edson. It was published in the 1970s and so has nothing after that date. This is useful for quickly determining successor and predecessor railroads, which, otherwise, would take considerable research in Poors Manuals at Strasburg, St. Louis, Dallas, Sacramento and lesser files elsewhere.

This is particularly helpful for the years from 1840 (Von Gerstner's history) and Poors' 1867-68 first edition when nothing was published except Stow's incomplete financial guide of 1859 and Poors 1860 East Coast railroads. The Civil War prevented him from doing all the remaining railroads as most were in the South..

There are some incorrect years shown and not all railroads prior to 1870 are given.

To find a railroad you must scroll down. As there are 150 pages, how far to jump before scrolling can be estimated.

APPENDIX: ELECTRIC RAILWAYS

The following tabulation lists operating carriers which appeared in the annual Selected Financial and Operating Statistics from Annual Reports of Electric Railways, published by the Bureau of Transport Economics and Statistics of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the years 1920-1953. Starting in 1954, active electric railways were listed as part of Transport Statistics in the United States. In the introductory statement to these publications, the I.C.C. explained that the electric railways reporting to the Commission were those interurban and certain commercial electric railways engaged in interstate commerce as distinguished from the city street railways. Excluded from the listing were certain additional electric railways, subject to the jurisdiction of the I.C.C., that were engaged in interstate commerce to only a slight extent.

The dates listed in the "Active" column in the following tables show the years during which each company operated as an active electric railway. Most of the dates before 1920 are taken from the book The Electric Interurban Railways in North America, by George W. Hilton and John F. Due, Stanford Press, 1960. This reference work contains detailed histories of most of the lines listed here, plus many other carriers which never reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission since 1920. Other historical information was found in Moody's Manual of Public Utilities. Company names in parentheses were not listed by the I.C.C.

Abbreviations are the same as used in the steam section plus the following:

- a - Company active prior to 1920
- * - Company active but not listed prior to date of disposition
